

This is a Pirate.

This is Not.

It's Time the Content Industry Learned the Difference.

The Big Content Companies are at it Again.

New technologies let us enjoy lawfully acquired music when and where we want. But some real pirates at the record labels want to stop Americans from using new products for noncommercial purposes in the privacy of their own homes or on the go.

Under proposed legislation, the most basic and well-established consumer practices such as creating a "my favorites" play list from your satellite radio program or recording free over-the-air radio could be outlawed.

Stop this unprecedented government intrusion into your private, noncommercial and legitimate home entertainment practices.

Tell the record labels to start cracking down on real pirates, not consumers.
